

Ice Breaker: Categories

Arrange students in a circle.

Activity:

One person thinks of a category, then the group takes turns naming items that fit in the category. When one of the participants can't name another thing in the current category, s/he is out; the game continues until one of the last two players can't continue. But the other player doesn't win unless s/he can name another item in that category. (Sample Categories: characters on The Simpsons, cities or countries that begin with a certain letter, things that are yellow, kinds of trees, brands of soda, cartoon shows).

Exploring Leadership Skills

Who do you consider to be a leader? Name as many as you like.

What qualities do good leaders possess?

What sorts of jobs or careers are available to people who take on leadership roles?

Do you want to be a leader in your chosen profession? How will you go about accomplishing this goal?

To develop your leadership skills, consider the following suggestions.

Also, add your own qualities.

- Be credible and trustworthy.
- Organization is key!
- Offer solutions to problems instead of complaints.
